

ATTEMPT MADE ON LIFE OF EDWARD VIII.; LIGHTNING ACTION ON PART OF GUARDS SAVES MONARCH IN DOWN-TOWN LONDON

King Had Just Presented New Colors To Three Regiments in Colorful Ceremony — Would-Be Murderer Reported
As Shabbily-Dressed Englishman

By DAVID P. SENTNER

LONDON, July 16—The life of King Edward VIII, 42-year-old sovereign of the British Empire, was endangered today when a would-be assassin made an attempt upon him in the heart of London.

Lightning action by foot and mounted policemen saved him from injury or death. A revolver in the hands of the attacker was knocked to the roadway. A second later, according to reliable reports, a missile of some sort was slung at the King's horse, but missed its target.

The attempted assassination is the first recorded effort to take the life in all King Edward's years as Prince of Wales and King, as the monarch rode back to Buckingham Palace from Hyde Park.

And in a colorful ceremony he had presented new colors to three regiments of the Royal Life Guards, a tradition followed by each new sovereign of the British Empire.

The would-be assassin, according to reliable information, was an Englishman, a subject of the King. He was about 40 years old, shabbily dressed, and wore eye-glasses.

The man stood with countless thousands on the sidewalks lining Constitution Hill. Mounted on his huge horse, the King had just passed through Wellington Arch with a detachment of brass-armored Horse Guards behind him. The assassin moved forward, lifting a nickel-plated revolver and pulled the trigger, before policemen and bystanders stood upon him. The pistol did not explode and a second later it fell to the roadway.

The missile incident was shrouded in mystery. One eye-witness said it was a "dirty package" and that it struck the King's horse's flank. The Evening Star said the missile was "about the size of an orange and missed the King by twenty yards." But while this particular incident was not entirely clear, King Edward's bravery was manifest.

Although the horse veered slightly in the excitement, the King continued. A look of surprise on the King's face changed to one of annoyance and then he proceeded to ride to the palace as if nothing had happened.

London newspapers rushed out extra editions. "Attempt to Shoot the King; Man Arrested; Pistol Pointed; Policemen Jump From Horse Upon Him; The King Unmoved" read the Evening Standard's streamer head. The man was rushed to the Bow Street police station. It was announced he would be charged with "political offense."

Gov't Spends More in Six Years Than in 127 Years

WASHINGTON, July 16—A recent report issued by John C. Gehhart, director of the National Economy League, indicates that the Federal Government has spent $11,750,000 more in the last six years than in the entire period of 127 years from 1789 to 1916. The Hoover administration is given the responsibility for a share of the deficit, but the figures reveal that the great bulk of the Governmental spending came under the New Deal Administration of President Roosevelt.

The report places the gross expenditures of the Federal Government during the last six fiscal years at more than 37 billion dollars. For the first 127 years of the republic, expenditures for all purposes totaled only 26 billion dollars, Mr. Gehhart said, observing that "this sum was sufficient to pay the entire cost of America's participation in the World War the first year and for nine months of the second year."

"While these figures of accumulated debts and deficits simply stagger the imagination, the terrific rate of increase in the volume of Federal spending in recent years must make every respectable citizen stop, look and listen, and then act effectively to halt the deluge of debt and taxes," he added.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR HOURS FOLLOWING AUTO CRASH

Bert Shontz, Newtown, Has Possible Skull Fracture and Brain Concussion

ONE DRIVER UNDER BAIL

A possible fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain have confined a Newtown man to Harriman Hospital, where for a period of several hours he was in an unconscious condition.

The injured: Bert Shontz, 37, Newtown.

Held in the case following the crash of two automobiles on Route 113, east of Newtown, yesterday afternoon, is William Rue, Durham Road, South Langhorne. Rue was held in $500 bail to await the outcome of Shontz's injuries.

The two cars, a sedan operated by Rue, and a coupe operated by Shontz, are said to have side-swiped. State Highway Patrolman Jones, of South Langhorne barracks, investigated. He claims the two passed on the wrong side, and in the collision the cars were considerably damaged.

Shontz was taken to Harriman Hospital by the patrolman, Rue, and other passersby. He did not regain consciousness until during the night. It is believed that he has a skull fracture, and concussion of the brain.

Rue was uninjured. In a collision of two trucks at the intersection of Parkland Road and the new Lincoln Highway, yesterday morning, Walter Grimm, 131 W. Cortland street, Philadelphia, was slightly hurt. Grimm was operating a milk truck, and in the crash this overturned. The other truck was driven by William Justice, Bloxon, Va. Justice was not hurt. Patrolmen from South Langhorne barracks, State Highway Patrol, investigated the case.

Miss Betty Missimer has returned to Philadelphia after spending a week with her aunt, Louise Bauer.

Brush Fire Threatens Several Homes in Yardley

YARDLEY, July 16—Serious property damage was avoided yesterday afternoon when members of the Yardley Fire Company, No. 1, stopped a roaring furnace of flames and smoke, ignited by a brush fire at the home of W. C. Leonard, in the Delavue Manor section.

The flames spread rapidly through the dry grass, heading directly for a wheat field owned by Andrew C. Cochran, and threatening several homes, those of Carl A. Schell, W. C. Leonard, Robert S. Johnston and Dr. W. S. Harrington.

Members of the company worked for more than an hour to abate the flames, assisted by the local Boy Scouts, with brooms, booster tanks and chemicals, and it was only through rapid work that the flames were stopped at the edge of the wheat field.

WORLD-TREASON

(New York American, July 15, 1936)

Communism marches on with giant strides in France. Emboldened by the treaty of a military alliance with the Stalin Government and the Red-and-Pink complexion of the present radical-Socialist French Government, the Communists are now BORING INTO THE FRENCH ARMY after having defiantly raised the Red flag on two of France's cruisers and seventy of her merchant ships.

A Paris cable from the Universal Service correspondent, Arno Dosch-Fleuret, to the Hearst papers quotes Le Temps, the most substantial and least sensational of France's big dailies, as follows:

"BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE IT IS INDISPENSABLE TO DRAW THE ATTENTION OF PUBLIC OPINION AND THE GOVERNMENT TO THE COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN WHICH IS METHODICALLY AND AUDACIOUSLY LED AGAINST THE COHESION OF THE NATIONAL ARMY."

Le Temps then goes on to charge that the French Army is honeycombed by a Communist campaign "TO TURN THE SOLDIERS AGAINST THEIR CHIEFS" in order to bring on "A VIOLENT REVOLUTION."

The Communists have, further, instituted a "REGIME OF TERROR, HATRED, JEALOUSY AND SUSPICION" with the object of creating insubordination and bringing on "A PERIOD LIKE THE WORST PERIOD OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION."

Simultaneously with the publication of this editorial in Le Temps, as if in miraculous substantiation of these charges, came the VOTE OF CONFIDENCE of 403 to 162 of the Chamber of Deputies on the action of Air Minister Cot in TURNING OVER THE SECRETS OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF AN AIRPLANE GUN TO SOVIET RUSSIA.

Minister Cot actually defended this disclosure of military secrets to Communist Russia as "TECHNICAL COLLABORATION."

The charge of Le Temps and the swapping of military secrets between France and Russia bring out at last the whole meaning of the military alliance between these two nations. It is an alliance that THREATENS THE PEACE AND INSTITUTIONS OF EVERY OTHER NATION IN THE WORLD.

It means, if patriotic and nationalist Frenchmen do not check it, a COMMUNIST FRANCE—a France CONQUERED by an alien country—Russia—a country ALIEN TO ALL THE WORLD, a country which has no other use for France than to use her as a cat's-paw in her purpose to conquer the world in the name of the dictatorship of the proletariat and the DESTRUCTION OF ALL DEMOCRATIC FORMS OF GOVERNMENT.

Russia, therefore, in collusion with the traitorous French Communists, has put all her energies into indoctrinating the French Army and Navy with treasonable doctrines.

These tragic events that are happening in France are of profound importance to America—for THE SAME TACTICS that Franco-Russian Communists are employing in France are being employed here by our alien-born Communists and their copperhead American Allies.

They are boring into our Army and Navy. In France, ac-

APHIS INFESTATION HARD ON POTATOES

County Agent Does Not Believe Intense Heat Caused Damage

TOMATOES BLISTERED

Bucks county potato and tomato growers, said County Agent William P. Greenawalt, Doylestown, this morning, have more reason to be concerned over the activities of the aphis than they have of the results of the intense heat wave during the past week.

Asked about the damage to tomatoes and potatoes during the past few days, Mr. Greenawalt said he is of the opinion that they had not suffered much, although it is known that some tomatoes were blistered to a considerable degree.

Spraying of both the potato and tomato vines, added Mr. Greenawalt, serves as sort of a protection in that it provides some shade.

Fortunately, during the extremely hot spell there was an abundance of rain and this ample supply of moisture prevented the potato and tomato vines from burning. Had there been no moisture, it is likely vines of both plants would have perished.

Mr. Greenawalt said that if the potatoes were affected in any way by the intense heat, it was the early plantings that suffered most, because the young tubers are just beginning to set and they draw a large amount of nourishment from the vines.

Referring to the aphis, the County Agent said this has been very active during the hot weather and steps must be taken immediately to combat its activities. This, he said, can be done by spraying. He recommended the use of one pint of nicotine sulphate and three pounds of soap to 100 gallons of water.

Many of the tomato growers are not equipped to either spray or dust for aphis and the best they can do is to put into use the small hand sprayers or dusters. It is too late in the season, it was said, to use the larger pieces of

Stockade; Cornwells At Lookout Camp

TROOP 2 BEST DRILLED

CAMP BUCCOU, FLEMINGTON, N. J., July 16—Three Lower Bucks District Boy Scout troops are here the second week of camp. Cornwells with Scoutmaster Robert Geiger and junior assistant Scoutmaster Alvin Marshall, Jr., are occupying Lookout Camp. Croydin is located at the handicrafters, with ship committeeman Floyd Peters as leader, and Bristol, No. 7, is occupying the stockade with junior assistant Scoutmaster Oscar Booz. Neighborhood Commissioner William Amick, Cornwells, and Scoutmaster Leslie Craven are with the units from their communities.

Neighborhood Commissioner, William Amick, was selected by the other troop leaders here as the camping commissioner for the second week. This honor has come to the Lower Bucks district for two successive weeks. Last week, the honor was given to Scoutmaster Robert B. Downing of Bristol No. 2. It is one of the greatest camp honors to be selected as camping commissioner. It represents that the individual selected commands the respect of all of the leaders at camp from every part of the council.

The office places the individual in the capacity of assistant camp director to Scout Executive William F. Livermore with the responsibility of the camp when Mr. Livermore must be absent on his official responsibilities. Amick and Downing are both experienced Scouters, and all honor is gladly given to them by the Buccou staffs of the first and second weeks.

Bristol No. 2 during the last week of camp were the best drilled and cleanest troop on the camp site. The scoring was very close, and they only won on a very close margin of two points. Full credit goes to them for their fine showing, and Scoutmaster Robert

VISITORS FROM HAWAII FIND HEAT UNBEARABLE

Dr. and Mrs. Lamb Tell of The Beauties, Bounties of Isles;

MUSIC FILLS THE AIR

No, Hawaiians don't live in grass huts, they don't wear grass skirts, and lepers don't suffer. But, Hawaiians do play guitars, wear flowers in their hair, and swim in December. Are you surprised? It's all true. This much and more was learned in an interview with Dr. Alvin Lamb, Honolulu, T. H.

Dr. and Mrs. Lamb recently paid a short visit to Dr. J. J. Willaman and family, Fairview Lane. Dr. Lamb is employed by the Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association and is in this country investigating the possible sale of molasses sugar. He was formerly employed by the United States Public Health Service in work in the leper colony, but when the government, three years ago, decided to "economize," the research work which was being carried on in this field was cut down.

It was one of Bristol's warm days when the Lambs stopped here, but they didn't seem to be taking the heat like people from the tropics are expected to. As Mrs. Lamb mopped his brow and puffed.

"One wouldn't think you would mind the heat," was a statement put to Dr. Lamb.

"Oh, my, it never gets this hot in Honolulu!" Mrs. Lamb exclaimed. "Why, our hottest weather is seldom above 90, and December, our Winter month, never gets colder than 60. We swim at the beach at Waikiki every day, all year around."

"Do the natives wear grass skirts and play guitars like they do in songs?" To many, Hawaii is visioned as consisting of moonlit beaches, rustling skirts, people swimming miles under water, and music with the notes sliding into each other.

"No, they never wear grass skirts, nor live in grass huts. On feast days, when they want to entertain the tourists, the natives will roast sweet potatoes and whole pigs in a hole in the ground, and then they do wear grass skirts, but their usual costume is the Mother Hubbard dress."

"The Mother Hubbard dress!" Where, oh, where were the awing Hawaiian skirts!

"Yes, when the missionaries, years ago, came to the Islands, they put dresses on the natives: full skirts gathered into tight bodices. They still wear them, even the princess, Kawahakia. Her dress is made of black satin embroidered in gold Chinese designs."

What a combination—Mother Hubbard, black satin, a Hawaiian princess, and Chinese embroidery!

"Don't look so worried," Mrs. Lamb said. "The Hawaiians do play lots of music. In fact they seldom go any place without taking their guitars or ukeleles along. Just going on an errand in town, a native will pick up his instrument and stroll down the street playing and humming as he goes. It's fun just to walk along and listen to them, and they are always smiling." Even though a native of New England, Mrs. Lamb seemed very fond of Hawaii.

"They wear flowers all the time—big, cool blossoms stuck in their hair, or a lei, which is a wreath of flowers twined around their necks."

That was more like it! Flowers and

WATER DEMAND BREAKS RECORDS DURING HOT SPELL

Consumption More Than Doubles During 24-
Hour Period

2,612,000 GALS. ONE DAY

Pressures and Potability Kept
At Usual High Standard

Excessively high temperatures almost immediately increase the demands for water and this has been particularly true in Bristol during the hot spell which has held Bristol in its grip for the past several days.

Those in charge of the water department of Bristol Borough have kept a watchful eye, day and night, over the amount of water in storage as well as the "up" and "down" curve on the demand meter at the water pumping station. Few residents here realize what a water shortage means. They have always been amply supplied, since 1911 when the borough acquired the water works, with pure and potable water in unlimited quantities.

The old saying "you never miss the water until the well runs dry" is one which means little in this area which is supplied from the Delaware river through the plant of the Water Department of Bristol Borough. You turn on the faucet and the water is always there.

Little thought is given as to where the water comes from, whether or not the supply is limited and one never thinks that there might be a time when water will not flow with the mere turning of the faucet.

This area is particularly fortunate in having an unlimited source of supply in that magnificent body of water—the Delaware river. Then again borough council and particularly the water committee and borough engineer John S. Roberts, Jr., spend many hours keeping vigil over pumps, purification systems and all of the other necessary appliances so vital to a water system which operates continuously—24 hours a day for seven days a week.

Just what would be your reaction if the water service failed as you were about to start the family wash or you found the spigot dry as you were about to step into the tub, or you were compelled to let your lawn and garden be baked into a solid mass because there was not sufficient water to permit of its use for such purposes. Many communities are facing this very situation today. In countless sections of the country the use of water is restricted and severely restricted at that. Towns within a 10-mile radius of Bristol are on a water ration today. But this is not true here. But, don't just carelessly let the water run and waste it. Remember all water is filtered and purified.

A Courier reporter interviewed Borough Engineer John S. Roberts today in an attempt to get a story on the water situation here.

Always speaking cautiously and never desiring to be classed as a brag-gart, Mr. Roberts at first hesitated. "We don't know when something mechanically might go wrong," he said. "We never know when an electric storm might hit our lines and cause an

THE CIVIL SERVICE PLANK

In its declaration on the civil service, the Republican platform meets a problem that is challenging both in its complexity and in its vitality. The platform does not stop with a declaration against spoilsmanship, but addresses itself to the positive steps toward improvement.

"We will provide such conditions as offer an attractive permanent career in government service to young men and women of ability, irrespective of party affiliations."

It is to be hoped that the Republican candidates will unfold the proposal into real measures for the creation of a career service. These would include such items as handling of personnel problems by sections specifically devoted to that task in the Departments, fluidity instead of rigidity in respect to promotion and transfers, recruitment at appropriate age levels, abolition of evasion of merit standards by "temporary appointments," wider use of service records in adjustments and transfers, adequate administrative procedure for discipline and discharge, and the extension of merit principles to the top administrative positions.

Expert and independent men in key administrative posts would be the strongest guarantee against bureaucratic capriciousness. Aware of the traditions and facts of administration, and politically un beholden, they would be the surest brake to over-anxious and under-informed political superiors. That has surely been the British experience.

Vertical extension of civil service standards is clearly necessary for a true career service such as the Republicans propose.

A FARM BULLETIN

Repeatedly the New Dealers have emphasized the dependence of industry upon agriculture. While seeking to favor agriculture, they have scolded and harassed industry, seemingly without realizing that they were working at cross purposes, their performances being comparable to one man digging a hole with another immediately shoveling the dirt back in.

The comment is pertinent to a bulletin just issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reporting a six-year high cash income of farmers in the first four months this year. It first points out that while prices for wheat, cattle, hogs and wool have been lower, these have been offset by larger marketings, a matter maybe of cause and effect—lower prices vs. larger consumption. Then appraising farm income for the rest of the year the bureau observes that while dependent "to some extent" on new crop yields, the return will probably exceed last year's. "Industrial activity is maintained at the levels now in prospect."

The statement attests the positive interdependence between industry and agriculture. If the one be forcibly depressed, then inevitably the other will be also, regardless of artificial stimulants.

No wonder the politician is cynical. Keeping his ear to the ground, he's bound to get it full of dirt.

Final revised results of the Schmeling-Louis fight show the income tax collector the winner.

After using a widely publicized reducing belt for six months, a local desperate case finds the belt is much thinner.

London, July 16—One chamber of the gun, knocked from the hand of a man attempting to assassinate King Edward, was found empty, a brief official statement issued by Scotland Yard declared this afternoon. Apparently no one, however, heard a shot fired.

Woman To Go To Chair

Ossining, N. Y., July 16—The curtain will fall in the death house at Sing Sing prison tonight, on the sordid drama of Mrs. Frances Creighton and Everett Applegate, her former lover, and co-conspirator in the poison murder of his 220-pound wife, Ada.

Moaning on her prison cot, on which she has lain almost motionless for eight weeks, Mrs. Creighton was still unaware that the special commission sent by Governor Lehman to examine her had reported her partially paralyzed, mostly feint, and that she is physically well and mentally normal.

While there was little chance of a reprieve for the woman, Applegate desparingly hoped for commutation. The chubby, rosy-cheeked American Legion Commander, seduced both Mrs. Creighton and her fifteen-year-old daughter. Applegate has been writing letter after letter to attorneys pleading "that they do something for him."

With politeness, the State will send Mrs. Creighton to the chair first tonight. If she refuses to walk, she will not be carried; there will be a wheel chair. Governor Lehman had the commission examine the woman because of a report that she was paralyzed to such an extent that she would have to be carried to her death.

Yardley Poultrymen Suffer Heavy Losses

YARDLEY, July 16—During the hot spell over the week-end a number of local poultry raisers sustained losses among their chickens. Raymond Ruth, Louis Boss, Oliver Wharton and a number of others had losses of about a hundred each among their laying hens.

Until some steps could be taken for the installation of insulation, Mr. Boss and Mr. Wharton, installed electric fans in their houses to reduce the death toll of their stock.

John C. McCormick, owner of a large duck farm about a mile north of this borough, during the four days of the heat suffered a loss of over 1500 ducks. Mr. McCormick hatches, raises and sells ducks to the New York market, and his loss was not only among the birds housed, but among those in the open pens.

In a few cases, where concrete was being mixed for house foundations, work was abandoned during the day-time and operations were underway during the cooler hours of the night.

The demands on the water system in the borough was so great that the pumps were kept in constant operation to keep the reserve at its full extent, so that water has been available at all times during the drought. At present the old well is available in addition to the newly drilled well on College avenue. This has been in operation for less than three months.

Lower Bucks District Scouts Are In Camp

B. Downing should be happy for what his Scouts were able to accomplish. In the tournaments, the troop was not able to make much headway, and they were defeated in the preliminary eliminations by their fellow troops before they could make any places in either touch football, volley ball, croquet, soft ball, and quoits. The record of the troop during the advancement periods in morning indicated progress, and many of the Scouts will be receiving first and second class advancement. Scoutmaster Downing was instructor in first aid, and Lawrence McCoy was the instructor in nature subjects. Honor Scout from Bristol No. 2 is Leo Duffy. Duffy was selected by his fellow troop mates for election into the Order of the Arrow, the National Honor Camp brotherhood.

Scouts from Bristol No. 7 at Buccoon are Samuel Brehart, Joseph Brehart, Aldridge Everett, Peter Everett, Ralph Hart, Charles Heath, Walter Hanuser, Charles Long, William McIlhenny, David Sims, Russell Sims, Frank Turner. From Croydon there is George Strickler, Warren Oppman, Joseph Scott, John Welsh, Richard Mossbrook, William Dea and Francis Dreaver. Cornwells has the largest Lower Bucks group with Joseph Dedrick, Jr., Francis Bowman, Roger McElwee, Paul Menzen, James Hutton, Harold Turner, William Tochterman, Franklin Wharton, Herman Reif, John Cantwell, Charles Mudie, Alexander Deans and Carl Stenberg. Other troops at Buccoon the second week are Doylestown No. 2, Chalfont and Perkasie No. 2.

"slidey" music. How romantic! Another thing, this word "aloha." Maybe this wouldn't be quite as disillusioning as the other ideas of Hawaii.

"Oh, yes, the natives use that word more than any other. It may mean almost anything: hello, goodbye, welcome, or I love you."

"Do you eat pineapple all the time?" Mrs. Lamb laughed. She had to admit that they eat a lot of pineapple. All fruits grow in profusion. There never could be a real economic depression in Hawaii because lack of food and clothing is almost an impossibility. It never gets cold enough to cause suffering in that way, and the trees are laden with fruits the year around. Bananas, coconuts, and melons are plentiful. The malakai is a melon, which is very good, too, but like no melon we have in the States. Then Dr. Lamb asked "What do you think Honolulu is?"

The mouth of the questioner dropped. "It's a—why—"

"Everyone seems to have a different idea of what Honolulu is, and what Hawaii is. Honolulu is the largest city on the Islands. It is situated on the Island Oahu. Hawaii is another island, the one which is a semi-active volcano, and sometimes erupts, disconcerting the natives. On one of the smaller islands is the Leper Colony with which I was connected. There is an impassable cliff separating this colony from the rest of the island which is used in pineapple plantations. The colony has a fence around it and we feel well protected from it. The lepers live in the colony and are allowed to marry, but as soon as the children are born, they are taken away from the parents and put in leprosy isn't inherited, but children might easily get it from direct contact."

"Aren't they terribly unhappy, having to live on one little island all their lives, knowing they can never see the rest of the world?" was the next question put to Dr. Lamb.

"No, they are very happy there. And being a leper doesn't bother them either. It gives them very little pain, and they are perfectly satisfied to lead a passive life on the colony. They are under doctor's observation, and many of them have to have treatment."

"Don't they ever see their families?" "Oh, yes, their families can come and talk to them through the fence." He paused a minute.

Then: "You see, I had the idea that leprosy was caused by a deficiency in vitamin B, so I was working on the nutritional angle of the disease. Leprosy occurs among the very poorest people, those who probably don't have a sufficiently varied diet."

Mrs. Lamb spoke again. "Here is another word the natives use a lot, and the whites, too. You know that there are 11 army posts on the Islands, and thousands of army and navy troops. Then there are Japanese, Portuguese, Chinese, and Philipinos. Among all these people, English is most commonly spoken. But, if someone can't understand, all he has to say is 'no savvy' which means to everyone—"

"No understand."

"That's right, I think you would love Hawaii as I do, if you went down there. It's so friendly and happy."

"What about the wild life on the Islands, the birds and trees?"

"Well, there are no snakes, and very few song birds. Long ago the natives made ceremonial capes for their chiefs out of bird feathers, and as a result, there are very few birds on the Islands. The trees are perfectly beautiful."

"Lots of kinds of palms, and a tree called banyan. You remember what kind of a tree the Swiss Family Robinson made as their home? It was a banyan tree. The tree sends out huge branches which in turn grows roots to hold them up, and after years of growth, it is a mass of roots and entwining branches. The shower tree grows big red or yellow blossoms. They plant rows of them down the streets and from May to August, the streets are lined with brilliant colors, some bright yellow, and some red."

"What about transportation on the Islands, and between the Islands?" Poor Mrs. Lamb. It seemed curiosity was unending.

"There are boats between the Islands, and you'd be surprised at the number of stream-lined cars there. Of course, there is no place to dump rubbish on the Islands, so they just collect the old cars and dump them in the ocean."

"What! Just shove them out into the water?"

"Yes, they load the old cars on a boat, steam out a distance, and let off the brakes. It's a good way, don't you think? With 2,000 miles of water on all sides, a few thousand boat loads of rubbish won't make a bit of difference."

Imagine living on a tiny island with all that water around you! People sinking all day, streets lined with blossoming trees, fruits in everyone's yard, riding the waves in for a half a mile from the coral reef, no icy blasts, or sizzling heat waves. "Mrs. Lamb, will you take us back with you?"

apparatus because the tomato plants at this stage have sprawled themselves all over the fields.

Mr. Greenwalt does not believe the blistering of the tomatoes to be very serious. He has found that only those tomatoes that are reaching the stage of maturity were affected in this manner. Commercial growers do not as yet have many tomatoes which are nearing the ripening point and consequently their losses on account of blistering have been very small.

Water Demand Breaks Records During Hot Spells

Interruption of service. We had better not brag about our good luck."

"Oh, tell us something about the big demand for water during the hot spell," pleaded the reporter.

"I'll tell you this," said Mr. Roberts. Last Thursday all records were broken at the water works in so far as the number of gallons of water pumped are concerned. The water meters showed that on Thursday of last week a total of 2,840,000 gallons were pumped. This is the greatest number of gallons of water pumped in a 24-hour period since the establishment of the plant in 1875. On Friday of last week when the temperature again soared to extreme heights the demand for water went up with the mercury.

and 2,612,000 gallons were consumed. The average consumption is about 1,250,000 gallons a day.

Supplying the amount of water demanded is not the only responsibility of those in charge of the water supply, but pressures must at all times be maintained. Every emergency must be provided for in so far as it is possible to do so.

Four pumps were pressed into service during the peak of the load when ordinarily it requires but two pumps. Saturday the demand was 2,155,000 gallons.

One striking thing about the unusually great demand was the fact that within five minutes after the dust storm of Friday evening, there was an immediate cessation of any unusual demand. It is stated that because of the wind and dust storm people immediately shut off their lawn sprinklers, thinking there was going to be rain.

In addition to maintaining an adequate supply, and good pressure, the bacteria count was kept at zero all through the high demand. This means that despite unusual conditions the Bristol water department delivered to residents of Bristol, Edgely and Croydon and the other area supplied from the Bristol water works, a high quality of water regardless of excessive demands.

Just to show how close a watch is kept on the water situation here, it is stated that as soon as there is an unusual demand, which cannot be accounted for, and the needle on the demand chart suddenly swings upward, employees go out and patrol the district covered by the water distribution system, to see if they can find any unusual demand. This is done as a matter of precaution, so that supply and pressures will be maintained for fire emergencies. On Thursday and Friday the area was thoroughly covered during the high demand hours, but it was found that the heavy demand was due entirely to lawn sprinkling and other domestic uses of water.

FIRES BY NIGHT

An experienced camper when tramping in a country inhabited by roving wild animals will light a fire at night to keep them away from his shelter.

The animals fear the fire, and yet are curious about it. They venture close to the camper, but as long as the fire burns, he is safe from attack.

The fire at night is the campers' protection from wild animals. Life insurance is YOUR protection against death. Both are important for they help to conserve the human life which is so valuable.

You may not be a camper—your life may never be in danger from attack by wild animals—BUT—no matter where you are or what you are doing, there is always that grim specter of death hovering near.

By lighting your fire of protection by insuring your life, you have taken the most sensible step a clear thinking man can take.

DELIA, SOUTHPAW BOXER, TO MEET WM. DANIELS

Fresh from a victory over William Simms, Vince Delia, St. Ann's southpaw ace, will meet a stiff opponent in the amateur boxing show to be conducted by the St. Ann's Athletic Association next Monday night in its arena, Wood and Franklin streets. Delia's foe will be William Daniels, Seymour, Daniels is boasting of a record of four straight triumphs.

Delia came back at Palmyra last week and handed Simms, a runner-up in the Camden tournament, a real shellacking. In the fifth round, the Bristolian had the colored youth out on his feet and the only reason that Simms was not stopped was because a spectator became excited and tossed a white coat into the ring. Delia, thinking it was a towel from his foe's corner stopped punching. Delia's record will take a big jump if he succeeds in beating Daniels.

William Leighton, Rescue Squad mittman, will attempt to annex his sixth straight triumph when he meets Tommy Delia, East Side. Delia, a southpaw fighter, will give Leighton plenty of trouble as he shoots his punches in the order of Al Hall. Leighton will have to improve immensely if he intends to beat Delia.

In the wind-up of the card, Harry Graber, East Side, will mix it up with George Jones, Seymour. Graber holds a victory over the colored fighter but the Seymour boy is after revenge and will give Graber plenty of trouble.

Harry Davis, the local colored youth, has Johnny Williams as his man for that night while Tony Puccio and Louis Spino will fight an encore.

Last night at a meeting of the A. A. U., two Bristolians were placed on the all-star show to be held at Mayfair, July 24. Tally Sclara meets Danny Murray and Harry Davis fights Joe Scheckler.

Tickets for next Monday night's show can be secured by phoning the St. Ann's clubhouse and asking for Charles Alta.

THIRD WARD OUT TO END HIBOES' WINNING STREAK

The Third Ward A. C. will attempt to bring the 17-game winning streak of the Hibosians to an end tonight when the teams clash on Leedom's field. In another Bristol Twilight League fracas, the Odd Fellows will battle the St. Ann's team on Landreth's diamond.

OAKMONT DOWNS BRISTOL; LOCALS OUT OF PLAYOFF

By Louis Tomlinson
Jack Williams set Bristol's American Legion nine back on their heels with six hits and three runs as his mates pounded out nine hits for nine runs to walk off with a 9-3 decision over Bob Hems' Legionites. The game, however, was much closer than the score might indicate for up to the ninth inning the visitors led 4-3 in a close game all the way.

Besides giving only six hits of which three were of the scratch variety, Williams struck out six and allowed five passes. Jack was never in serious danger after the third when the Brackens gang got themselves two runs to take a momentary lead of 2-1.

Pat McGahan mounted the hill for Manager Hems and rode along pretty smoothly after a bumpy start and fourth until he ran into a rut in the ninth. Pat allowed only six hits up to the fatal inning, but three of these were bunched with a pair of passes, a sacrifice, and a fielder's choice for a trio of tallies in the fourth after they had gotten one in the third. McGahan was touched for eight hits, struck out seven, but passed the same number, balked and had a wild pitch to his credit. His wildness together with faulty fielding on the part of his team mates who committed nine miscues, either by booting or tossing the ball around, kept the lanky southpaw in trouble continually. On the other hand Williams received superb support from his mates who pulled him out of difficulty on several occasions by fielding feats, two of which were double plays.

The only thing our side could boast of was a home run to deep right center field from the bat of Stanley "Parrot" Dick in the fourth with the bags empty. The blow kept Bristol on the visitors' heels at the time as they led 4-2. Freddie Kalencki batted in two Bristol runs with a single to center in the third. Ben Drake, Walt Halas and Bob Pegg each had two hits to lead the "hit parade." The latter drove in two runs, both of which came in the last inning to put the game on ice for the winners, while the former drove in a pair in the fourth.

Oakmont failed to threaten in either of their first two bats although they put men on the bases in both frames. So did Bristol but the difference was that as soon as Bristol put men on they were wiped off by double plays.

The Chester Countyites broke the ice with one in the third. With one away Duffield walked, advanced on an infield out, and scored on Pegg's single to left and Kalencki's error. Bristol came through with a brace of runs to take a 2-1 lead, the only time the homesters led in the ball game. Eastburn beat out an infield hit but died stealing. With two out Tomlinson beat out a hit to short. Gallagher doubled and both scored on Kalencki's single to center.

Oakmont came back with a trio of markers in the fourth to take a 4-3 lead and never to be headed thereafter. Ciccarelli walked to open the inning; Curran beat out a bunt and DeFazio sacrificed them along. Halas bounced to VanLenten and Ciccarelli was nipped at the plate. Hagen bounced a single off VanLenten's chin to score Curran. Duffield walked while both Halas and Hagen registered on Drake's single. Pegg grounded out. It was in the lower frame that Dick plastered a Williams pitch between Curran and DeFazio and circled the bases to bring the score up to 4-3.

From this point on scoring ceased until the ninth although both teams put men on the bases only to leave them stranded.

In the fatal ninth Duffield opened with his third walk of the day; Drake beat out a bunt and both advanced on a passed ball. Pegg, with a 3-2 count, tripled past Kalencki to drive in Duffield and Drake. Williams fanned, but Ciccarelli walked. This marked the exit of McGahan and the appearance of Bill Gallagher on the peak. While Ciccarelli stole second VanZant tripped Pegg off third but VanLenten missed the throw, allowing the runner to score. In the meantime Ciccarelli reached third on a passed ball and he too was trapped off base but managed to scamper back safely when Gallagher hit the runner in the back. Curran grounded out to score Ciccarelli. Dettler struck out but took second as VanZant threw a missed third strike into right field. He scored the final run as Halas' hit trickled past Dick. Hagen fanned.

The winners now earn the right to meet McCall in the final play-off series at Franklin Memorial Stadium in Philadelphia.

According to Le Temps, the Communists' "first purpose is to destroy the influence of Army chiefs."

Here in America, their machinations are directed at the rank and file of our Army and Navy.

And, unfortunately, the same weakness in our governing bodies is being shown here as in France.

The McCormack-Tydings Military Disaffection Bill, which passed the Senate of the Seventy-fourth Congress but FAILED OF PASSAGE in the House, provided drastic penalties for those who circulate verbally or in printed form subversive doctrines among our defenders.

An American was recently given twenty years for selling naval secrets to a Japanese agent. In France the radicals give a nation's secret-seller a VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

It is only the asinine optimism of sentimentalists that believes that what has happened in France CAN'T HAPPEN HERE.
